

Michael Turner

Partner
Agribusiness

Michael is based in Nairobi and is responsible for Actis's agribusiness investments. Michael has been instrumental in some of Actis's key successes in Africa, including the launch of the Acacia Fund, the first private equity fund in Kenya and the US$16 million equity investment in Flamingo. He joined Actis in 1988 as an investor focused on Eastern, Central and Southern Africa.

Prior to joining Actis, Michael spent three years in investment banking in London, for Lehman Brothers and Kleinwort Benson, having started his career with Price Waterhouse.

Michael has a first class degree in Civil Engineering from Southampton University and is also a chartered accountant.
